County board faces 'Catch 22' situation

By RICH ADAMS
The Hancock County School Board revealed Monday it may face a 'Catch 22' situation in selecting a site for its proposed south end high school complex, according to Board President Woodrow Ladner.

School patron Richard (Pat) Peterson asked the board Monday if it was going to establish a specific site for the proposed school before requesting money from the Educational Finance Commission.

Ladner reported that an earlier land swap deal fell through when the landowner leased the site to St. Regis Paper Company, and added the landowner will not negotiate for another site until the school district has the money to build the school.

He also reported that the EFC will not provide the funds to construct the Bay school budget tabled, Ginn questions spending

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees refused to accept a 1980-81 budget proposal presented by Superintendent of Education J.D. McCulloch at a special meeting Tuesday night.

The board's action came after Trustee James Ginn questioned several budget items on which he insisted the superintendent provide more detailed information.

McCulloch reported the district has $2,792,888 in available funds for 1980 which is $276,383 more than last year. "Some 23 percent of the budget will come from local funds with 23 percent being state funds and nine percent federal funds," the superintendent said.

"If we do not exceed this budget we will have $75,565 left over at the end of the fiscal year," McCulloch added.

In categorizing the budget, McCulloch stated, "81 percent of projected expenditures were for salaries, seven percent for purchase services, eight percent for supplies and materials, and four percent for capital outlay."

Ginn asked McCulloch, "What is the breakdown on the student sports activity fund and what are our figures on investment?"

McCulloch replied, "I don't have a breakdown on student activity funds, but I do know we had $100,000 invested."

Ginn said, "We should be looking at all of these sports programs. For instance, we should know what percentage is for the football program and are they paying their way."

McCulloch replied, "No sir. No athletic program in the state pays its way."

Ginn asked, "Do we pay for out-of-town teams?"

The superintendent replied, "We have a contract agreement for that." Ginn reported, "It looks like the football program will take care of $4,200 of the budget, but somewhere we're going to have to make the decision whether or not we can have an athletic program in the elementary and junior high grades."

"Every year we are going to have an increased budget and eventually we will have to either cut programs or raise taxes," Ginn stated.

Lana Noonan, North Bay Parent-Teacher Organization president, said, "The majority of the kids at North Bay Elementary don't participate in sports and I think intramural sports would be sufficient."

Ginn replied, "I'm not against sports, but something should be cut."

Trustee Walter Turcott asked, "What about bus insurance?"

"If someone sets a bus on fire or damages one, will this be covered?"

McCulloch replied, "No sir. The contingency fund covers driver liability for $30 per month per driver."

Turcott explained, "We could wake up with eight busses out of commission."

McCulloch said, "I don't know if we could even get that kind of insurance."

Trustee Maurice Singleton stated, "I think the income and expenditures on the athletic program should be broken down into each activity. It's not necessary to do this for the budget, but as a report each quarter so we'll know how much we are spending."

Ginn explained, "What I'd like to see is an itemized listing of expenditures. These budget figures don't mean a great deal to me."

"How can we compare these figures with other school districts? How do we compare with activity expenditures? How do we see if we're operating as efficiently as we can," Ginn asked.

"I'm sure these figures were well thought out, but with the budget going up and up we're going to have to cut out more programs or operate more efficiently," Ginn said.

"We only have 12 percent of the budget we can change. We have to say what we can do now or we'll look at the budget next year and we'll have to ask our taxpayers what do they want to pay for," Ginn explained.

McCulloch stated, "I feel good about the budget because we don't have to go to the taxpayers for increased assessments. Also, we didn't have to go

Two drown in boating accident

By RICH ADAMS

Two brothers from the Lizana Community drowned at the Windy Hills Farm Lake one mile south of Hwy. 53 Saturday after a boat in a 12-foot fiberglass skiff when Dennis and Wayne left the boat for shore, according to Cooper.

The pair, along with brothers Dennis Moran and Wayne Moran, were traveling on the lake in a 12-foot fiberglass skiff when Dennis and Wayne left the boat for shore, according to Cooper.

The boat then capsized and sank, and Tracy and Dale Moran began swimming toward shore.

Velda S. Moran, the boys' step-mother, told police Dale began yelling for help and then panicked when Tracy tried to pull him into shore.

Four units of the Harrison County Sheriff's Department dragged for the bodies from about 8:30 p.m. until they recovered Dale's body some length from the shore at 9:39 p.m., Cooper reported.

Tracy's body was recovered about 11:45 p.m., he added.

In addition to his brothers Dennis and Wayne Moran and their step-mother, the two victims are survived by their father, Veldon (Bud) Moran Sr. of Lizana; their mother, Mrs. Virginia (Jean) White of Dade City, Fla.; four additional brothers, Veldon (Joe) Moran Jr. of Gulfport, Christopher Moran of Lizana, Lawrence Allen White Jr. and Glenn Andrew White, both of Dade City, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Sybil Lizana of Pass Christian; and their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Ladner of the Dedeaux Community.

In addition, Dale Moran is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sheila Moran; a son, Dale George Moran Jr.; and two step-sons, Brice Emmitt Walters and Brock Edwin Walters, both of Pascagoula. Riemann Memorial Funeral Home on Hwy. 49 in Gulfport was in charge of the Sunday funeral arrangements.

KING-SIZED STING RAY—Michael Smith, 17, left, and Ames Kergowels, 15, both of Bay St. Louis, landed this massive female sting ray Tuesday morning while fishing on the Ullman Avenue Pier in Bay St. Louis. Kergowels estimated the fish's weight at 70 pounds. Smith said the ray, which was followed by several baby rays, took a small ground mullet. Smith was casting a shark-tipped rod and reel and fought his catch for more than an hour before bringing her to a gaff hook which she promptly straightened. Kergowels snatched the fish and the two managed to get it back to the seawall. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

White House answers questions on new draft registration law

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Office of Media Liaison of the White House Press Office in Washington, D.C. has provided the following report on provisions of the new draft registration law. The Sea Coast Echo is presenting the report in full as a public service to those readers and their families who will be affected by the law.)

On July 2, President James E. (Jimmy) Carter signed a proclamation requiring the Selective Service registration of men born in the years 1960 and 1961.

The proclamation follows Congressional approval of a request for funds to revitalize the Selective Service System.

In the President's 1980 State of the Union Address, he expressed his hope that it would not become necessary to impose a military draft, but that the United States must "begin registration and then meet future mobilization needs rapidly if they arise."

Funding for military registration was approved by Congress on June 25.

"Registration is merely the collection of names and addresses of people who might be called to serve in the event of an emergency. No physical examinations, no classifications, and no inductions are involved in the simple registration process. No one is being drafted for military service at the present time," a White House spokesman said.

The following are some commonly-heard questions concerning military registration:

Q. When will registration begin?

A. This year's registration program will take place during the two-week period beginning on Monday, July 21, and concluding on Saturday, August 2.

Q. Who must register in 1980?

A. All men born in the years 1960 and 1961 must register.

Q. Where will the registration take place?

A. At each of the 34,000 post offices in the country, during their normal business hours.

Q. Are there special times during the two-week period when individuals must register?

A. Yes. Men born in 1960 should register during the first week. Those born in 1961 should register during the second week. In addition, specific days of each week have been assigned for registering individuals depending upon the month in which they were born, in order to avoid long lines at post offices.

Men born in January, February, or March should register on Monday. Men with birthdays in April, May or June should register on Tuesday. Those with July, August, or September birthdays should register on Wednesday. And men born during October, November, or December should register on Thursday. Friday (all day) and Saturday morning are make-up times for those who cannot register on the day indicated by their birth dates.

Q. Give me an example. When would I be required to register if my birthday happened to be August 22, 1961?

A. Your registration day would be Wednesday, July 30. If for some reason you were unable to register on that day, then Friday, August 1, or Saturday morning, August 2, would be your make-up day. You will not be turned away if you appear on another day, however.

Q. What if I am 18 years old now, but will turn 19 years old in the fall? Should I wait until my birthday to register?

A. You should register this summer along with everyone else who was born in 1960 and 1961. Your age when registration takes place.

Q. If the draft boards are not operating at this time, will other classifications such as physical or hardship deferments be offered?

A. No. If classification actions are resumed in the future, registered individuals will be given an opportunity to apply for special classifications. Classification is not a part of the registration process.

Q. Are women born in 1960 or 1961 required to register?

A. No. Current law authorizes only the registration of men.

Q. What if a registrant changes his address?

A. A change of address form is provided with the letter of acknowledgment. Such forms are also available at every post office. Registrants are required by law to notify the Selective Service System of address change.

Q. Does the federal government believe that most of those individuals required to register will do so?

A. Yes. Even during the height of the Vietnam protests and demonstrations, young men continued to register as required by law. Based on Census Bureau estimates of the number of young men attaining registration age, it appears that between 98 percent and 99 percent of those required to register did so in the past. It is expected that the great majority of young people will recognize their responsibility under the law and register as required.

Bay Council accepts Main Street project

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis mayor and council form of government started its fourth year at a Tuesday night meeting this week.

Pete Benvenuti was re-elected president with council member Harry Farve as vice-president.

Acceptance of Main Street renovations from US-90 to St. Francis was finalized in a 3-1 vote.

One of the first actions to face the new form of government in 1977 upon taking office was the signing of the contract for the federally funded project.

The prior administrators had acquired the grant and had advertisements already placed for the renovation of Main Street.

Council members had been hesitant to accept the job, indicating they did not think it was up to specifications.

The Council recently received word that funding for the work would be cut off in addition to jeopardizing further federal grants.

Farve moved for acceptance of the job and upon council vote, Jim Thrifley voted against with Farve, Benvenuti and Wilmer Seymour in favor. Councilman Fred Wagner was absent.

Thrifley said, "I do not feel that we got a good job and have been taken to the cleaners. The engineers say the work is O.K., but I am against it. I think the road will fail, it looks like it is already failing close to Coast Electric, I object to it."

Engineer for the road construction was Burk and Associates.

The engineers did recommend if the Council wanted to they could charge the contractor for 28 days of liquidated damages at the rate of $50 per day. Council was in favor of that action.

In other business Council heard from Alton J. Benoit Sr. former city policeman.

Benoit read a lengthy statement to the mayor and council about conditions of being a policeman.

His comments were, "...Many calls are not police business. For example, since I took a job as a policeman, I had to catch a 300 pound pig, catch a bad dog, catch an alligator and remove an opossum from a lady's bathroom. These jobs are for the dog catcher or Wildlife and Fisheries. One lady calls us to go to the grocery store for her..."

Benoit said he was hurt on the job five weeks ago and the only compensation he received was a check for $195.

Benoit continued "...Everytime Chief (Douglas) Williams comes before the Council to ask for more funds to purchase new cars and equipment or for raises for the men, the council has turned him down..."

Benoit's letter went on to criticize the lack of enough policemen on the force and how there is a need for more qualified men and patrol cars.

A report from Joe Brown III, Brown Engineers, Inc., cautioned the Council about securing easements for the 1979 Small Cities Project as soon as possible.

the surface of their secondary exist for the subdivision.

Hirstius said, "There is loose dirt on the surface and if it rains, when the sewer lines on Spanish Acres Drive is being repaired, we will be trapped."

Hirstius also inquired about the cleaning up of the ditches reporting he had killed three snakes last week in his yard.

A lengthy discussion was held on the matter of the ditches being cleaned. Mayor Bennett was authorized to work the street crew overtime in order to clean the ditches.

Bennett reported, "I only have a foreman and four men on the street crew." The mayor said he did not have enough men to do the work during regular hours.

Bennett reported, "I only have a foreman and four men on the street crew." The mayor said he did not have enough men to do the work during regular hours.

It was agreed for the city crew to work in the subdivision Wednesday through Saturday on the ditch cleanup. James Chiniche, engineer, suggested the addition of some culverts at Citizen and Washington Streets as a possibility for helping relieve the flooding of Spanish Acres. Chiniche commented, "It would not completely solve the problems, but would help."

Chiniche stated he had contacted the L&N Railroad and they gave him an estimated ballpark figure of $20,000 for the construction of a temporary bridge while the drainage pipes under the tracks were being lowered.

The engineer said, "I had estimated $15,000 and thought it was high."

Chiniche said if the additional drainage pipes were placed under St. Charles and Washington he would recommend they be set on a specific grade and arrangement at each location.

Council took Chiniche's proposal under recommendation.

Joe Bernom, Spanish Acres resident, questioned when the city would clean the ditches along Spanish Acres Drive where the raw, sewage has been running.

"When the sun heats up the six inches or so of sand in the ditches along the road there is a terrible odor," Bernom said.

Police Chief Williams complained about the inadequate electrical service in the Valena C. Jones complex.

"Monday we had a little cloud show up and a flash of lightning and we were without lights until 10 p.m.," Williams said.

Police radios, telephones all alarm systems all were out for several hours. Bill Johnson, superintendent, suggested that the police, senior citizens, and fire station all be placed on a separate electrical supply.

Councilman Farve suggested the city's electrical board be contacted and get their recommendations and then a cost estimate.

Bay burglary studied by PD

Bay St. Louis Investigator Matt Karl reports that Lusich's Department Store on Third Street was burglarized during the night of July Fourth.

Don Lusich, owner of the department store, said he discovered the robbery when he opened for business Saturday morning an estimated more than $9,000 in merchandise was taken.

Karl said he and Bay Policemen Gordon Campbell are investigating the break-in through the back of the building by an air conditioner.

Lusich reported watches, jewelry, costume jewelry, lighters, clothing, microwave oven, TV set and toaster oven were among items missing when he opened the store.

Karl said they did not have any suspects as yet, but were continuing the investigation.

Utilities Department Superintendent Bill Johnson said the pipes are being repaired following a leak survey which was recently completed. He added all leaks on Main Street will be repaired before re-pavement of that street begins. Also pictured at right is Francesco (Ringo) Alvarado of the Gas Department. BANNER YEAR DESPITE HIGH INTEREST

Despite the psychological barrier of interest rates at or above 10 percent, an amazing 3.8 million resale homes changed hands in 1978. This unbelievable demand for housing was fostered by two things: the deep rooted desire by Americans for home ownership, and the attractiveness of a home as an investment, which has been fueled in recent years by the inflation that has driven home prices up more than 10 percent a year.

One of the major reasons for this sales activity is the availability of mortgage money, not normally typical in a time of high interest rates. The causal factor is the "certificate of deposit" offered by Savings and Loans at an interest rate tied to treasury bill rates. This has prevented the withdrawal of deposits, the principal source of mortgage credit, in favor of other higher yielding investments. Although high interest rates may not be flagging the purchase of resale homes, it could likely result in a decline in new housing starts, since builders' borrowing is geared to the prime rate, unlike mortgage borrowers.

'Mr. Moon' a mystery

Investor interest in HGH continues

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
An Atlanta firm is proposing to buy or lease Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis, the second investor in recent weeks expressing interest in the local facility.

The 20-year-old Hancock General Hospital was originally financed in part with federal funds authorized under the Hill-Burton Act of 1964.

Clear ownership of the facility will revert to the county with bond issue maturity in 1981, apparently triggering the current interest in the operation.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday authorized David Vance of Southern Health Services, Inc. of Atlanta to talk with the hospital's Board of Directors.

Rev. Charles Johnson of Bay St. Louis, hospital board chairman, said Wednesday a Tuesday night Hospital Board of Directors meeting with Southern Health Services did not materialize.

"Last night we conducted a meeting with the hospital staff to discuss paperwork at the hospital," Johnson reported.

"The final decision to sell or lease the hospital is entirely up to the County Board of Supervisors."

"Vance contacted me after the Monday supervisor's meeting and I told him to put his proposal in writing and I would present it to the hospital board," Johnson stated.

"We haven't received a proposal yet," Johnson added.

Vance told the supervisors Monday morning, "I want to throw our hat into the ring to buy or lease the hospital."

The company representative appeared at the regular 9 a.m. meeting to find out if reports about the hospital being up for sale were true.

Supervisor Sam Perniciaro said, "About three months ago Ms. Joan Penny of ERA-Sand Dollar Realty (who represents a Chicago attorney) approached me about buying the hospital. We told them the hospital could be sold."

"This gentleman is supposed to meet with the board, but we never said we would sell," Perniciaro added.

Board Attorney Walter Gex told Vance, "I don't think this board would be interested until we talk with 'Mr. Moon' (the Chicago attorney) and you."

When Johnson was questioned further about the identity of 'Mr. Moon' Wednesday morning, he said, "I have not heard the name of the attorney, just the name of the Ocean Springs realtor."

Vance explained to the supervisors Monday, "Once we get the go ahead, we make an inspection of the hospital, we talk to people on the street to find out what they want from the hospital and come back to you with a bound proposal if we want to lease or purchase."

Gex stated, "If the supervisors gave their approval, you would have to get permission from the hospital board."

"Talk to Rev. Johnson and tell him you spoke to the board of supervisors and you need to talk to the hospital board about leasing or selling," Gex said.

"After you make preliminary contacts you can talk with the board," the board attorney added.

Vance asked, "After we make our evaluation do we go back to the hospital board?"

Gex replied, "Yes, go to the hospital board."

Vance reported, "We've taken several hospitals and breathed life into them."

Gex asked, "What input does the Board of Supervisors retain?"

The company representative replied, "Usually it would be a 'net-net' release which would require the supervisors to act as a hospital board or could appoint a board."

"We would use the board as a sounding board to get community support," Vance added.

A management overview presented to supervisors Monday by the representative says the company:

—Operates three hospitals that it owns or leases with 443 beds in Georgia and Mississippi;

—Has agreed, in principle, to acquire four additional hospitals with 261 beds—these acquisitions will result in SHS owning or leasing 704 acute care hospital beds;

—Manages three 135-bed hospitals under 20-year contracts.

—Manages two hospitals and two nursing facilities for other owners with 256 beds in Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee;

—Has a contract to reopen a 50-bed hospital in Georgia that it will manage.

STUDY ANIMAL SHELTER—A plan for an animal shelter is reviewed by Waveland's Alderman Barbara Rappold, left, Mayor John Longo and Cellistine Dumestre, a representative of the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, at a special meeting Monday night. Other elected officials attending the meeting including 18 humane society members were Alderman Jack Toomey and Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson. Lolly

Backlund, president of the humane society, said the group would like to see a tri-supported animal shelter by Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the county. The current shelter has to be closed because of expansion plans by Alcan Cable, owner of the property now being used in Bay St. Louis. An offer of support was given by Waveland's officials with hopes of the other two governing bodies participating. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

Waveland proposes $15,000 county-wide animal shelter

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society received the strongest support yet in its quest for an animal shelter in the county Monday when Waveland Mayor John Longo offered $5,000 if Bay St. Louis and Hancock County Supervisors would to the same.

Longo said, "I am sure Waveland could allocate $5,000 since now is budget time. 'Aldermen Barbara Rappold and Pat Toomey are here and agree, so if the other governmental bodies would give $5,000 each it would be a good start with $15,000 for an animal shelter," the mayor said at an informal meeting Monday evening.

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson stated, "I am interested in a central animal shelter. We (county) do not have a proper shelter. When someone is bitten by a dog in the county, we have to get a dog warden from Bay St. Louis or Waveland to work out of their jurisdiction. I feel we are in dire need of a shelter."

Longo added, "We have had a very good working agreement with the City of Bay St. Louis in the operation of the old dog shelter. We have been sharing the bills. Over the years we have talked about the construction of a new shelter."

The present dog shelter, located on property owned by Alcan Cable of Bay St. Louis has to be vacated by the end of August because the company needs the ground for plant expansion.

Cellistine Dumestre, a member of the Humane Society, commented, "My interests run along the lines of safety for the people, which is the same as the sheriff's."

Dumestre reported he had spoken with supervisors Sam Perniciaro and James Travica in addition to Bay

Mayor Larry Bennett.

Dumestre said his group had been studying maps of the area and feels property buffering the Bay St. Louis Oxidation Pond could possibly be used and not affect anyone.

"The area between the lagoon (oxidation pond) and the railroad would be ideal with all the shade trees. It would not be near any residences and is easily accessible to the three governments," Dumestre added.

A set of plans was shown the group which were drawn by Dr. H.W. LeBourgeois, Waveland veterinarian. The Humane Society representatives also said that the doctor would teach the dog wardens how to administer shots to animals.

Ms. Rappold commented, "We are growing communities. People still think we live in the country, so they let their dogs roam."

"After Labor Day we will see many stray dogs which are left behind by the summer visitors."

Longo suggested the possibility of an extension on the closing of the old animal shelter. He said it would take at least 60 days to build something if started now because of advertising, bid acceptance and construction time needed.

The group of humane society representatives said they would contact the other supervisors and Members of the Bay Council for support of the tri-area dog shelter.

A resolution was suggested and Mayor Longo said he would have Lucien Gex, Waveland board attorney draw one up for the council's approval and suggested the group get one similar from the county and Bay.

Dumestre said he would do some of the footwork on the project with help of other members of the humane society.

County donation policy challenged by resident

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Hancock County resident threatened legal action against the County Board of Supervisors Monday, challenging the board's use of advertising funds as donations to church and private organizations.

John E. House of the Crane Creek Community primarily objects to a $1,000 donation to the Necaise Crossing Gumbo Festival.

"I'd like to know why the board made contributions to the Gumbo Festival and the Hancock County Gun and Rod Club," House asked the board.

Board Attorney Walter Gex replied, "Both were taken out of the county's advertising budget."

House stated, "I don't think these donations are legally oriented. The Gumbo Festival is a Catholic organization."

"Mississippi advertising should go through the State Department of Economic Development, not Hancock County," the Crane Creek man explained.

Gex said, "Mr. House, this is perfectly legal in my opinion and if you would like a State Attorney General's opinion I'll be glad to get one."

House stated, "If you all want me to challenge this I'll get a lawyer and we'll see what's legal, but the Gumbo Festival is still a fund-raising thing for a Catholic organization."

"Church and state affairs should be separate," he added.

Gex said, "Everybody doesn't belong to all organizations."

House replied, "In my opinion the county shouldn't pay for all of these donations to private organizations."

"You've got highways and roads that need to be maintained," the county resident added.

Gex replied, "Well, not everybody drives on the highways either."

House said, "I'm not a lawyer. You're a lawyer and you are going to try to twist me up."

Gex stated, "If you are opposed to the county's use of funds you are entitled to take legal action."

The Crane Creek man reported, "I'm opposed to $1,000 being given to the Gumbo Festival."

The board attorney explained, "This is an organization that attracts tens of thousands of people to Hancock County every year. It's massively advertised in an effort to promote the county."

House reiterated, "This is put on for the benefit of the Infant of Prague Catholic Church and we've got a state organizations and Gulf Coast chambers of commerce to advertise events like this."

District One Supervisor Bert Courge began speaking in defense of the Gumbo Festival, but House interrupted and asked the supervisor,

"You're in charge of the festival, aren't you?"

Courge replied, "No sir."

House stated, "Your father-in-law (Louis Breux) started it."

The District One supervisor elaborated, "I'm not connected with the Gumbo Festival and I'm not even a Catholic."

House explained, "You'll never see our church ask for a nickel of the county's money. The other day we wanted some washed gravel and we bought some at the gravel pit."

"You know how some people will go to District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and ask for some gravel on the side," House said.

"I'll just take this to an attorney," he added.

Shrimp season to remain open

By RICH ADAMS

Despite reports of declining catches, the current brown shrimp season in Mississippi will not close early as it did in areas of Louisiana last week, according to Bureau of Marine Research Director Dr. Richard Leard.

Some inland Louisiana waters were closed last week after that state's marine resource officials determined too many juvenile white shrimp were being taken, endangering the white shrimp season this fall.

Leard said Monday Mississippi's law restricting shrimp within one-half mile from shore has prevented boats from taking post-larve white shrimp, adding not many white shrimp have shown up in trawling nets.

Leard said some areas, such as the mouth of the Biloxi Back Bay, may have to be closed as the current season progresses, but stated "we have not seen any white shrimp in great numbers to alarm us."

"With Mississippi's narrow coastline on the Gulf, there are not many areas where shrimpers will find white shrimp in any great number until the fall," Leard explained.

Leard said recent reports indicate the brown shrimp season, which is considered the worst in years due to heavy spring flooding, is on a "steep downswing."

"The catches are getting smaller even though the shrimp are a good size," Leard said Monday.

"It is getting harder and harder for shrimpers to justify the fuel expenses for their boats when the average boat only nets 200 pounds or less of shrimp a run," he continued.

"The season has played out just as we had anticipated. All we can do is hope for a good white shrimp season this fall," he added.

Leard said his department has not received any reports on development and population of white shrimp post-larve at this time.

BOATING SAFETY TIP

That extra can of fuel aboard your boat might be a margin of safety, but not if it runs the boat's load over recommended capacity. The Committee for National Safe Boating reminds boatmen that pleasure craft should not be overloaded. Common sense demands that boat owners make sure they know their craft's capacity and never exceed it. If you must leave something ashore to stay within the limits (do it). (But don't start with your wife!) Check the manufacturer's capacity plate for his recommendation. If your craft does not have such a plate, your marine dealer can advise you on your boat's safe weight limit. (Courtesy Florida 35 U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary)

Cuevas denies Guard billing

By RICH ADAMS

Hancock County School Superintendent Billy D. Sills and Board Member Monvel Cuevas took issue Monday with statements made last week by Board Member Johnny Banks concerning board expenditures.

At a recess meeting last Thursday, Banks accused the board of mismanaging funds and not acting to build a proposed high school in south Hancock County, adding that the Picaune unit of the Mississippi U.S. Army National Guard allegedly billed the district for landscape work at the Hancock North Central campus.

"I would like to clarify that the National Guard has not billed anybody for anything, nor has any member of the National Guard been hired for pay by the school district to do any work at any school," Cuevas, a warrant officer with the Picaune unit, said prior to Monday's regular meeting.

"All work done by the National Guard was free, with the exception of materials and fuel," Cuevas continued.

"A lot of the guardmen came out to HNC on their own time and did some of the work," he added.

The National Guard landscaped the playground and built bridges over drainage ditches at Hancock North Central last fall.

The unit is presently completing pumphouses to supply the school with more drinking fountains, the board member explained.

"The board did hire a plumber and helper to dig ditches and install water pipes from the pumphouses to the school, but those people had nothing to do with the National Guard," Cuevas said.

"The National Guard provided the manpower, all equipment, and food during our work at HNC. This is our monthly training," Cuevas added.

During Monday's regular meeting, Sills recommended the board commend the Picaune unit with a resolution.

"I suggest we go on record with a resolution commending the Picaune unit of the National Guard for the work it did at the school. The project will be completed this weekend," Sills said.

Board Member Oris Ladner moved to adopt the resolution, which was seconded by Board Member Louis Ladner and unanimously approved by the board.

Banks was not present at Monday's meeting.

EDITORIAL

Banning of bottles on beach applauded

The passing of an order prohibiting all glass containers on public beaches in Hancock last month by the board of supervisors is something we have needed for a long time.

Empty bottles were in evidence from one end of the beaches to the other by the close of the long Fourth of July holiday.

Big bottles, little bottles, whole bottles, broken bottles and cracked bottles were wherever the eye would turn on Monday morning.

We are happy to see Waveland's Council has also approved an order prohibiting all glass, and that Bay St. Louis has asked its attorney to draw up a similar ordinance.

We understand signs are on order for posting the law on the beaches. We feel this is a necessity.

It is impossible for the sheriff's office, the Bay and Waveland police to enforce such an ordinance without help. During big holidays they have far too many traffic problems to contend with and physically not enough men and women to stop the use of glass containers.

One of the reasons for the ordinance banning bottles on our beaches is to protect barefoot beachcombers and swimmers from cuts when cavorting on the sand.

We have had our share of cuts when we were kids from bottles and we have seen some very serious injuries to bathers.

Labor Day is only a few weeks away. It sure would be good if we could have enforcement of the glass ordinance by then. We feel the signs are really a necessity.

Bits 'n pieces

Congratulations are in order for our political leaders who really got their workers busy on Monday in cleaning up our sand beaches.

A drive down Beach Boulevard late Monday revealed the beautiful job which has taken place.

We know on Monday morning there was a lot of trash from the remains of bon fires, cans, bottles and paper of all types.

It is good to see our elected officials showing a concern for our beaches. Thanks for a very good job.

Some people must have a very low mentality when it comes to the use of fireworks.

We had an opportunity of viewing several pieces of mail collected from mail pickup points on Monday with marks from fireworks exploding in the boxes.

It must take a person without any mentality at all to be stupid enough to drop a fire cracker in a mail collection box.

There are many folks opposed to the use of fireworks, and idiots like the ones placing fire crackers in mail collection boxes will eventually cause a complete ban.

We have ourselves popped many a fire cracker in our younger years. We always respected the property of others and persons messing with mail boxes could be in big trouble.

We are happy to have witnessed the warm reception the Bay-Waveland Humane Society received from the officials of Waveland Monday night.

Current efforts are being made to construct an animal shelter for Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County.

We hope support will be given by the board of supervisors and the city of Bay St. Louis.

We may not want to admit it, but there are not near as many dogs running the streets as there were before the humane society came into being.

The fine ladies and gentlemen who have been giving their time, efforts and money out of their own pockets should all be commended on their contributions to our county.

We know that Waveland and Bay St. Louis have given assistance over the years with the dog shelter in Bay St. Louis which has to be vacated because of need by the owners of the property.

We hope to see a nice animal shelter in the near future for Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County.

DANGER TO BATHERS—On Monday morning our beaches were covered with empty bottles from the long Fourth weekend. There were a few plastic bottles and pop cans. We are happy our board of supervisors have passed an order banning glass containers on our beaches. Far too many have suffered cuts on our beaches from the careless breaking of glass on the sand. We hope new signs which are on order will be up in time for the long Labor Day weekend.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

Insecticides Hold Dangers

Are the bugs eating up your garden?

Most insects can be knocked out with sprays, powders and other poisons, but the unwary gardener himself sometimes can suffer from the effects of the bug spray.

The American Medical Association offers some tips on proper and safe use of insecticides.

Read the directions on the container carefully and follow them. The manufacturer spells out the proper usage and safety precautions.

If the directions call for rubber gloves, protective clothing, or goggles, leave this alone, unless you are an expert.

Store the insecticide in its original container, with original label, in a safe, locked compartment, away from children and pets.

Destroy empty containers immediately.

Avoid inhaling sprays and dusts. Stay out of freshly sprayed areas.

Do not smoke while spraying.

If chemicals spill on the skin, wash immediately and thoroughly.

Cover bird baths, dog dishes and fish ponds before spraying. Pour left-over spray down a drain or into the soil. Don't leave it around in pans or pails.

In case of accident, follow the directions on the container. If in doubt, call your physician.

On a tv ad recently a man who at first looked like Jimmy Carter, rode up on a motorcycle, followed by a fellow who looked like Baretta, and then came Dan Dailey. What's going on? Seeing Celebrities.

Dear SC: What you were seeing were celebrity look-a-likes. They're cheaper than the real thing, if the real thing is available.

A number of agencies specialize in these look-a-likes, who like the celebrities themselves, are used to get attention.

All too often, though, look-a-likes, or the real celebs, don't transfer their attention to the product. (I noted that you didn't say who the advertiser was—I recall seeing it, also, but have no idea who it was, either.)

If the ad is featuring the real celebrity, you'll be told who it is. For these stars get top dollar for their appearance. Gregory Peck got a million from Travelers, as Jack Benny did from the Wool Bureau. John Wayne reportedly was paid some $400,000 for his series for Dartmouth—this came after the Duke turned down $200,000 from Alpo.

Kirk Douglas turned down $1-million from Atlantic-Richfield, and Burt Reynolds told Canadian Club to keep a preferred $500,000.

Jimmy Stewart refused six figures from GAF—he didn't like the way Henry Ford looked in the role; and Carol Burnett told Jello she didn't need the million or the exposure.

So the stars have been much in demand, so much so that they are able to pick and choose. The primary reason for use of stars is attention, but the Federal Trade Commission has become picky—a couple of years ago they determined that stars should use the products they were recommending. Otherwise, they said, the ads would be deceptive and unfair.

They ordered ball players to drink the beer they recommended, but ruled Joe Namath could forego the regular wearing of pinstripes.

The FTC also said that what the stars said must be true and documentable. It's not enough for Fran Tarkenton to think Wheaties help him throw a ball further—it must be documented. The expert must use his expertise to test before he endorses, the FTC said.

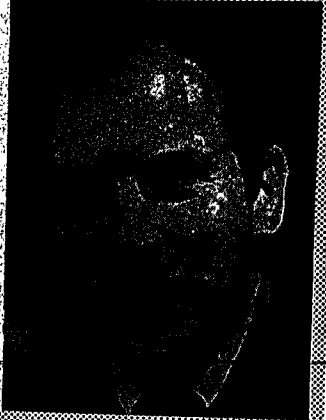

Celebrity endorsements have been used for a long time, and while they can be quite effective, many retailers have found price to be of more importance.

Everyone says I look just like former NY Congressman Bill Miller. What should I do? Star Struck.

Dear Struck: You might consider being a running mate for Barry Goldwater the next time he runs for President.

News from the governor's office

Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton will be featured speaker for a democratic Party fundraiser July 11, Governor William Winter announced recently.

Winter invited the 33-year-old Governor to speak, calling him a "brilliant, scholarly young public servant." Clinton is a graduate of Georgetown University and was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University in Oxford, England.

He holds a law degree from the Yale University School of Law.

Prior to his election as governor, Clinton served a term as Arkansas attorney general. He has been governor of the state since January, 1979.

The fundraiser is part of a comprehensive effort to strengthen the organizational structure of the Mississippi Democratic Party.

Proceeds from the event will be used to help maintain a permanent office for the party and to hire a full-time executive director.

TOWARD UNIFORMITY

Mississippi's public education system - secondary and primary is administered under four types of School districts, each operating under different laws which govern finance, selection of superintendents, and even selection of board members.

The different administrative structures result in wide variances in the quality of education offered from district to district and even from school to school.

Education is generally regarded as the key to Mississippi's economic advancement, and the state's current ranking as 50th in per capita income in the nation requires change in the present system if progress is to be made.

At the top of the structure - or problem - is the administration of Mississippi's school districts, and the Mississippi Economic Council has long recommended a single school district form with uniform administrative and financial procedures. The districts should operate with fiscal independence under a competent professional administrator appointed by and operating under the policy directions of a well-qualified board of education.

Districts with appointed boards and superintendents, when compared to districts with elected boards and elected superintendents, generally provide greater service and better leadership, since the former can exercise their responsibilities without regard to the political consequences of their decisions and actions - resulting in higher standards and quality of education.

Changes must come from public response at the local level, and the question concerned Mississippians must ask is whether they want their school systems administered by officials who can generate enough votes to be elected or by those appointed on the basis of their qualifications and public interest.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

The synthetic fuels bill, known technically as the Energy Security Act, has passed the House on a vote of 317-to-93.

It creates a U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corporation to disperse $20 billion in the form of loans, loan guarantees, purchase agreements and price guarantees - all in the name of encouraging synfuels production.

In theory, perhaps, it's a good approach. The bill proposes to spur domestic production of synthetic fuels from coal, oil shale and biomass to eventually reduce America's dependence on OPEC oil.

The approach was touted during debate on the House floor as similar to that used in Japan, a partnership between government and industry.

The other side of the debate was pretty much summed up in a Wall Street Journal article: "By legislating a new $20 billion subsidy program for would-be fuels producers... a House-Senate conference (has) created a whole new industry, one that is starting with its nose firmly in the government trough."

But if the Congress has created a new industry, I believe it's in response to a critical need to loosen OPEC's stranglehold. Every increase in OPEC prices signals an increase in the cost of living for the American People, an increase in the goods they must have, and, of course, an increase in the rate of inflation. We must make use of all available resources and pursue all possibilities in becoming energy independent.

The legislation has several important parts. For example, it creates a solar energy and energy conservation bank to provide $3.2 billion in subsidized loans and matching funds to persons who make energy conservation improvements or install solar energy equipment.

It authorizes $1.4 billion in incentives for alcohol production from biomass and municipal waste, which could mean a great deal to Mississippi. The production of energy from municipal waste is already under study in some communities.

Besides that, the legislation encourages expansion of geothermal energy use which, again, in Mississippi could be valuable because of the geothermal energy bed off the coast of Hancock County.

The bill is a comprehensive one and, frankly, I share some Members' concerns about the longevity of agencies created by Congress. There must be a point at which federal assistance ends and the private sector gets busy to solve energy problems.

It remains to be seen whether this bill will become the "shot heard 'round the world" of the 20th Century, or just another government misfire.

1. Check the reputation of a contractor with the Better Business Bureau, banks, building or trade associations, city building permit departments, or friends familiar with the contractor.
2. Get the names and addresses of several contractors. An effective approach is to ask friends and neighbors who have previously hired a contractor. It is risky to deal with an unfamiliar company or individual.
3. Get a firm, written estimate with a specific description of the work to be done, the type and quality of materials to be used, and include the total cost of the job. Never hire a contractor who has not come to the house to appraise the damage.
4. Ask for a written contract based on his estimate. Read the contract carefully. Have an attorney or trustworthy person review the contract before you sign. Be certain that the contract includes: the name, address, and phone number of the contractor; a complete description of the work; a specific description of the materials to be used; a provision requiring your written approval for any changes in the agreed-to plans and specifications; a guarantee containing clearly stated terms that covers all promised items; a provision setting forth the total cost of the work and the specific terms of payment for materials and labor. The contract must include the signature of the contractor. Never sign any contract containing blank spaces.
5. Never agree to a contract calling for substantial payments on the total amount before work is begun unless there is a legitimate reason known to you. Try to arrange payments in installments as portions of the work are satisfactorily completed.
6. Never rely on oral guarantees. If a guarantee is not written, it is generally worthless.
7. The "Federal Truth in Lending Law" also provides a cancellation period. This law gives you three days to cancel if the contractor received a security interest, such as a mortgage, on your home as part of the transaction.

800 number available to handicapped callers

Commencing this month, many hearing and speech impaired Americans who use teletypewriters and other keyboard devices to communicate over telephone lines will be able to use an expanded 24-hour operator service that will vastly extend their world of communications.

The Bell System's new 24-hour operator service for users of Telecommunications Devices for the Deaf (TDD) went into service at 11 p.m. EDT on June 29. It features a single toll-free number that will enable the TDD user to reach a special operator when assistance is needed to complete calls using TDDs.

The service will also be useful for speech impaired customers who require visual communications provided by key board devices.

The expanded service will immediately benefit approximately 50,000 TDD users in their homes or offices, nationwide. In addition, it will assist the TDD user who travels, and stops at hotels and motels. It will also aid business and Professional people who require the special services the new TDD centers will provide.

By dialing 800-655-1155, TDD users calling from anywhere in the continental United States now will reach a special Bell System operator who will help complete person-to-person, collect, credit card and third-number billed calls.

The new 24-hour directory assistance service will help TDD users obtain telephone numbers not easily found in their local directories.

Previously, many deaf customers had to seek the assistance of a third party to interface with a telephone operator. Now they can complete the calls themselves.

The deaf traveler who has a portable TDD also will be able to place long distance calls from public coin telephones by dialing the 800-655-1155 number.

The services will be provided from special Bell System facilities in Boston, Philadelphia, Omaha and Oakland. Bell operators in each of these locations have been trained to understand and meet the special needs of TDD users.

Handicapped craft fair scheduled in Gulfport

The first annual Arts and Crafts Display and Bazaar for the handicapped elderly will be held on Friday, July 25, at the old Soria City Elementary School in Gulfport. Activities will get underway at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m.

All older handicapped persons are urged to attend, as well as the general public. The event is being held at the Aged Blind Training Center within the old school, and the address is 1906, 17th Avenue. This annual event is being sponsored by the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District's Aged Blind Independent Living Program with the aim of focusing attention on the needs of older handicapped individuals.

"We see this event accomplishing two things," says Director Jesse Smith. "First, it will present an opportunity for older handicapped people to display and sell their handwork, and second, it affords the opportunity for the community to learn about the potential of handicapped people."

All older handicapped persons in the Coastal area are invited to display their work and participate in the event. Display and booth space is available at no charge.

Anyone needing further information about the event is encouraged to contact the coordinator of the Bazaar, Mrs. Mable Peyton, or Mr. Jesse Smith, at 888-2311, extension 283.

Plaster, woodwork, knitting, crocheting, upholstery and other types of crafts will be on display and for sale during the Bazaar. In addition, several food items will be available for purchase.

The Bazaar represents a milestone in the lives of many older blind and visually handicapped individuals. Some of those participating in the Bazaar were unable to even take care of their own personal needs not long ago, much less to utilize their talents in a productive way.

When Smith began a pilot training program for older visually handicapped persons in 1978, many older people were not considered for training in other traditional programs. Smith disagreed with that idea, and began teaching older blind people many of whom had gone blind in later years and never received any specialized attention - in basic self-care skills.

The next step was to provide opportunities for these individuals to become re-involved in the community, through work, recreation, travel, etc.

To date, the Elderly Blind Independent Living Program has provided training to over twenty-five people. The twenty-five people currently served by the program receive a minimum of five hours of instruction per week each, and have the opportunity to attend the Center for training, recreation, fellowship with their peers, and outings.

Smith's program includes training in adjustment to visual loss and blindness; communications; techniques for daily living; cane and travel skills; recreation and group activities; outings; and pre-vocational adjustment.

"We are trying to make the Bazaar an annual event," says Smith, "so that the public will recognize the real value of older persons who have handicaps. We think the Bazaar can be a dramatic display of the abilities of these individuals."

Smith's future plans include training in Braille, the development of employment opportunities for older visually handicapped persons, and a two-day trip for his students to a recreational area in the country.

"Cool as a cucumber" - don't you wish you could be that way in sweltering summer days? Well, cucumbers are an excellent summer dish, with their cool look and taste.

Cucumbers, fresh or pickled, have been a staple and delicious vegetable since earliest days... familiar to the ancient Romans, the Greeks, the Indians as long as 4,000 years ago... and grown in France and England and elsewhere many centuries ago.

Somewhere I've read that Christopher Columbus planted cucumbers in Haiti, and that they were later brought to the mainland of North America, where the early Colonists learned to enjoy them.

If you think of cucumbers only as a salad ingredient, or as just those tiny, delicate ladies' tea sandwich makings, you should try them other ways... sliced and braised in a little butter or meat stock or bouillon... or hollowed and baked, with stuffing of crumbs and chopped ham and cheese, and so on.

For salads I like to slice cucumbers paper-thin, almost shredding them, then drain and marinate in a classic

French dressing of three parts olive oil, one part wine vinegar, with liberal dashes of fresh-ground pepper, salt and fine-chopped dill, chilling, of course, before serving.

I also like to slice a cucumber quite thin, put the slices in a glass bowl and douse heavily with salt before I cover them with ice cubes.

Let them stand a few hours, then check, and if too salty, I just wash off some of the salt.

Then I squeeze - gently - the excess water, and top the slices with generous dollops of sour cream and sprinkle with fresh ground pepper. They're very crisp when prepared this way, and will even stay crisp for a few days in the refrigerator.

And here's an excellent cold sauce for broiled chicken or fish:

CUCUMBER SAUCE

Peel and grate a large cucumber, season with finely-minced shallot or green onion, add a dash of sugar and tarragon and vinegar, then combine with whipped cream or yogurt, if you're watching calories.

In 1979:

Gulf shrimp volume down, value increases

According to the new Fisheries Statistics of the United States, the 1979 fishing year was a very good one. Commercial landings were a record 6.3 billion pounds, up 4 percent and valued at a record $2.3 billion, up 20 percent.

The top states in landings were as follows: Louisiana, 1,529.1 million pounds; Alaska, 298.5 million pounds; California, 728.4 million pounds; Virginia, 572.2 million pounds; and North Carolina, 390.5 million pounds.

The top states in value were: Alaska, $597.0 million; California, $227.5 million; Louisiana, $198.5 million; Massachusetts, $176.5 million; and Texas, $160.2 million.

United States landings of shrimp were 336 million pounds, worth $471.6 million, down 31 percent by volume but up 22 percent in value from 1978.

Gulf landings of shrimp were down 17 percent. The shrimp fishery was the most valuable U.S. fishery.

Louisiana was number one in shrimp landings with 90.2 million pounds, followed by Texas with 67.6 million pounds.

Blue crab landings increased 11 percent over 1978 to 152.8 million pounds, worth $31.4 million. The Chesapeake states showed the largest increase, 23 percent, while the Gulf states showed a 1 percent increase.

Menhaden (pogge) landings were a record 2.6 million pounds worth a record $109.4 million. This is up 1 percent in volume and 11 percent in value. Gulf landings showed a 5 percent decline from the 1978 record Gulf harvest.

Over 96 percent of the catch was reduced to meal and oil, and the rest was used as bait and as canned pet food.

The oyster harvest in the nation was down by about 6 percent last year, but up in value over 7 percent.

school until the construction site is selected and secured.

"The spot could be changed. We cannot at this time guarantee a site would remain, and it would not be our fault if the site was changed," Ladner told Patterson.

"Just as long as the school is built south of I-10," Patterson said.

Patterson also asked if state or federal government inspectors will examine repairs to tornado-damaged Gulfview Elementary School before the board accepts the repairs as completed.

Ladner said School Architect John Mykolyk was responsible for seeing that all materials used are correct.

Board Member Monvel Cuevas added that Mykolyk had the construction company pull part of a roof on one of the buildings because it was not correct.

"The federal government will inspect the repairs if we receive disaster relief funds," Cuevas added.

In other business Monday, the board approved a packet of new policies and pay supplements recommended by Superintendent Billy D. Sills.

Included in the policies is a merit system for students; an in-school suspension program; a new leave policy for administrators, teachers, and non-certified employees; an athletic and academic hall of fame; and additional pay supplements for extra-curricular sponsors.

Several teachers at the meeting expressed surprise that the measure passed without debate, adding they anticipated a fight to win additional leave time.

Oris Ladner moved to adopt all the policies, which was seconded by Louie Ladner and approved by the board.

Also at the meeting, the board rejected three bids for portable stages, claiming all bids did not fit criteria asked for in advertising.

The bids were from Martin School Equipment in Jackson, Mississippi School Supplies in Long Beach, and Central School Supplies in Jackson.

The board accepted a bid of $8,180 from Sam Whitfield Chemical Company of Kiln for timber on 16th Section land.

Another bid from Magnolia Woods Incorporated of Picaune in the amount of $5,501 was rejected by the board.

In other business, the board approved advertising for repairs to district-owned home of the Hancock North Central assistant principal and the old Clermont Harbor School.

Mykolyk said repairs to the assistant principal's home will include enclosing the carport to make a living room, installing air conditioning, and replacing flooring and fixtures.

The architect said one room at the Clermont Harbor school, to be used to accommodate three special education classes and at least one regular class, needs the replacement and painting in one room, renovation of lavatories, and extensive cleaning.

On a motion by Louie Ladner, seconded by Cuevas, the board authorized Sills to advertise.

The board will meet Saturday, July 12 at 9 a.m.

BOATING SAFETY TIP

Pilots on instrument flights are required by law to submit flight plans; small boat skippers aren't required to submit "float plans," but they should, says the Committee for National Safe Boating. The float plan is much simpler than the flight plan: Just tell a neighbor or relative where you're going on your boat, what general course you expect to follow, when you expect to arrive at your destination and when you expect to return. If you lose your way and become overdue, the person in charge of your float plan will be able to give search and rescue authorities an accurate estimate of your location. (Courtesy Flotilla 35, U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary)

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER & CROP REPORT

JULY 3, 1980

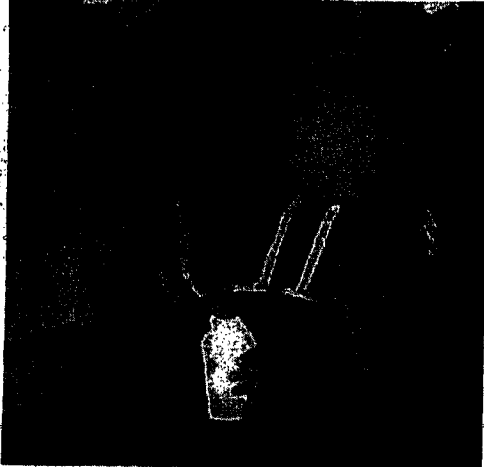

Hot, dry weather, coupled with the generally narrow demand during a holiday shortened period, not only reduced the volume of livestock moving through the Mississippi markets but prices were generally lower also. The beef trade was very depressed early in the week, but then the supply was sharply curtailed, and when the pipelines went dry, prices recovered very rapidly.

The first six months of 1980 saw a relatively stable beef cattle market, generally ranging from around 65.00-70.00 while 400-500 lb. feeder steers averaged up close to 100.00 early in the year, then ranging from 72.00-82.00 during the second quarter. Very high interest rates early in the year added an additional cost to finishing an animal, and with consumer resistance holding the retail price down, the front end of the meat production chain had to suffer the loss.

At the Mississippi Livestock auctions for the week ended July 2, 1980, around 5,800 cattle were sold, down 2,500 from the previous week, all auctions were closed for the holiday a year ago. Slaughter steers and heifers were unevenly steady, with Utility 13 40.00-45.00, Cutter 1-2 38.00-43.75. Feeder steers were steady to 5.00 lower. Medium No. 1 200-300 lb. steers 90.00-99.00, a few to 102.00, 300-400 lbs. 63.00-67.00, 400-500 lbs. 72.00-77.00, 500-600 lbs. 67.00-71.00.

Medium Frame No. 1 heifers 200-300 lbs. 70.00-74.00, a few to 77.00; 300-400 lbs. 65.00-70.00, 400-500 lbs. 61.00-66.00, 500-600 lbs. 59.00-64.00. The Texas Oklahoma Panhandle area moved 33,300 cattle. Slaughter steers and heifers were steady to firm. Lates sales good to mostly Choice 2-3 105.00-110.00, steers 70.50-71.00, heifers 90.00-100.00 the 67.50-68.00.

The St. Louis hog market had 18,300 head, down 8,200 from the previous week and up 200 from a year ago. Butcher hogs were 50-1.00 lower for the week, U.S. 1-2 200-240 lbs. 43.00-45.00, Sows were 1.00 higher, U.S. 1-2 300-450 lbs. 36.50-37.00, Boars over 250 lbs. 31.50.

back to our principals and ask them to come back and reevaluate their budget requests."

Ginn said, "I'm willing to take a recommendation from anybody."

Trustee Betty Diboll of Waveland reported, "We were third from the top statewide, in school expenditures per student."

Andrews Wilkinson, president of Bay St. Louis Local-American Federation of Teachers, stated, "Last year the Bay School District spent $17 per student and the year before spent $22 per student. The state average is $5 per student."

Ginn said, "I think we also need to look at our transportation expenditures."

Singleton explained, "If there was some way of comparing our budget to other school districts we would know what these figures mean."

Board President Virginia Gex then asked McCulloch for the written budget requests from each school.

Judy Barrett, past president of Bay St. Louis Local-Mississippi

Association of Educators, said, "When you read the budget you mentioned the school system would pay a liability policy for principals."

"How about paying the teacher's share of liability insurance too," she asked McCulloch.

McCulloch replied, "I haven't looked into it, but if the board wants me to I'll look into this."

Barrett stated, "If you pay $400 for each administrator's insurance you could pay our share of liability insurance."

Wilkinson reported, "The teacher's share of liability insurance is about $8 per year."

Barrett asked, "I'd like to ask the board to look into the feasibility of paying for this insurance... it only amounts to $8-47 per teacher."

McCulloch stated, "The new law hasn't addressed itself to this."

Singleton suggested, "Why not have the committee look into this."

Barrett explained, "This would be different from the $150 per year teacher medical and life insurance program."

"The district gave principals a 10 percent raise, but didn't give the teachers anything," Barrett stated.

"From what insurance company are the principals getting their insurance," she asked.

McCulloch replied, "...through Hancock Insurance."

Noonan asked the board, "Did you look into janitorial supplies?"

Diboll replied, "The budget allows $21,000 for these supplies."

Noonan stated, "I can't believe the district pays $21,000 for janitorial supplies."

"Do you have a contract with one company? Where do you spend $21,000," she asked.

McCulloch replied, "There are three or four companies we work with."

Noonan stated, "That just plays me."

McCulloch reported, "The Hancock County School District spends $4 per year based on what Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills said."

Noonan said, "I hope their schools are cleaner than North Bay."

Ginn said, "Based on last year's state figures, we would be the highest in the state for expenditures per student... about $22 per student."

McCulloch injected, "That includes teacher salaries too."

Ginn stated, "To me this would be a signal we're either reporting wrong or we're not operating as efficiently as we can."

McCulloch said, "We may be spending more for supplies and athletics, but we have a coach for everything."

Ginn stated, "We need direction from the administration and we depend highly on your advice."

"All I'm trying to say is do we need to examine and compare with other school systems," Ginn said.

"Maybe there's a group that can come in and provide a study of our school system," Ginn added.

West end of beach road to be repaired

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors awarded an approximate $10,000 contract Monday for Beach Boulevard repairs from Waveland's western city limit line to Bayou Cadet.

Anthony Pitale, president of P and M Construction Co. of Bay St. Louis, signed an agreement with the county at the 9 a.m. regular meeting to repair that portion of the beachfront thoroughfare.

The Bay St. Louis firm was the low bidder among five companies vying for the contract.

Proposals ranged from $31,250 to P and M's bid of $13,131.

However, the board agreed to delete concrete railing repair and clay-gravel for road shoulder repair which brought the contract price down to approximately $10,000, according to County Engineer Lawrence Seal.

The county was awarded $3,000 earlier this year by the federal government for Hurricane Frederic storm damage sustained along the beachfront last year.

Seal recommended to the board, "We're under the gun of a Oct. 8 deadline. If we are going to spend this money we should award the contract and delete two items."

"We have it written in the specifications that the board can delete any item in the proposal," Seal explained.

"I would suggest we get this job under construction," Seal stated.

The beachfront road project is totally in District One.

In a related Beach Boulevard matter, the supervisors took no action on a request by Mayor John Longo for Beach Boulevard repair funds.

Board President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar said Longo requested $15,000 to overlay portions of the beachfront road.

However, District Five Supervisor James Travica stated, "I can't see throwing that much money away on beach road repairs right now."

District Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro reported, "The City of Waveland wants to overlay some areas of Beach Boulevard."

Travica explained, "I can't see spending $15,000 on the beach road. I'm not against helping Waveland out, but they need to be more specific about the repairs they want to do."

In another Beach Boulevard matter, former county sheriff Sylvan Ladner of Bay St. Louis complained to supervisors of low road shoulders along the beachfront near Bayou Cadet.

"I counted 49 people with cars on the seawall over the weekend," Ladner said.

"I don't know who's taking the sand off the beach side and along the shoulders of the road," Ladner added. "I was wondering if it wouldn't be a big thing if some revenue sharing money could be used to repair this road," he suggested.

District One Supervisor Bert Courge explained, "No one took the sand, it was undermined by storms and we've taken bids to repave the road." Ladner reported, "People were bogging down on the beach the other night."

Board Attorney Walter Gex said, "We're preparing a final draft on Beach Boulevard repair plans right now."

Regarding another beachfront matter, Courge agreed to allow a Waveland property owner to try to recover his pier pilings which were recently removed by the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel G. Carbajal of

New Orleans said the pilings were the only thing left of their Waveland pier after Hurricane Camille in 1969 and they did not receive notice that the pilings would be removed.

Gex stated, "The board has some sympathy with your situation, but it took action based on the need of the community."

"The board advertised its action one year in advance in the local paper," Gex added.

Courge reported, "We advertised a year ago that we would remove the pilings and we feel it was a dangerous situation."

Mr. Carbajal said, "We're on a fixed income and can't afford to replace these pilings. We had 34 pilings that were still in good condition."

Mrs. Carbajal stated they were out of town for four months due to a family illness and they also did not subscribe to the local paper which ran the supervisor's notice.

"Some pilings were on an incline, but none were below the water line," he added.

Mrs. Carbajal reported, "When Hurricane Camille came we had no insurance or anything... we didn't know what happened when we saw the pilings gone... We were so thrilled just to have the pilings left."

Gex reiterated, "Again, I'm sympathetic with your situation, but the time element involved is another question."

Mrs. Carbajal tearfully stated, "It doesn't seem fair that someone can take your property."

"We have paid our taxes and we had a runner across the pier where you could walk across it," she explained.

Courge said, "I had several people tell me they would build back their piers, but because of recent lawsuits they did not."

Mrs. Carbajal asked, "What happened to our pilings?"

Perniciaro replied, "Most of the pilings were stolen off the beach."

Courge reported he had several pilings stored at his county barn, but most of them were rotted.

Mrs. Carbajal said they could not afford to put back the entire pier on their fixed income and it was not worth living on the beach without a pier.

Travica stated, "The pilings were an eyesore and the board voted to have them removed."

Courge explained to the couple, "You have an easement on the beach, but it's public property and we have to maintain it."

County budgets eyed in 'informal' meeting

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
In a closed, "informal" meeting Monday afternoon the Hancock County Board of Supervisors reviewed 1980-81 budget proposals submitted by various county departments and agencies.

Several budget requests were submitted at the supervisor's regular meeting Monday morning, but only the County Sheriff's Department and Gulf Coast Mental Health Center budgets proposals were available to the press.

Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson is asking for a $381,210 for the 1980-81 fiscal year.

He states in a letter accompanying his report, "A significant increase is due to a $75 a month across the board pay raise for regular employees and a $100 across the board pay raise for two investigators."

"Also a total of $27,000 is included in capital outlay for the purchase of three patrol cars which will be needed in the coming year," Peterson reports.

"The only other substantial increase is budgeted in consumable supplies which includes purchase of gasoline," the sheriff adds.

The Gulf Coast Mental Health Center is requesting $100,000 from Hancock County for the upcoming fiscal year. Kay Bracken, GCMHC Developmental Disability Services' director reported at the Monday meeting, "We need all the help we can get."

"Due to recent recessive trends in the economy the federal programs which partially fund us have been hit hard," Bracken stated.

"We need all the assistance we can get from local government because of diminishing federal programs," the director added.

In a related financial matter at the Monday morning meeting, Circuit Clerk Henry Otis presented a letter from State Auditor Hamp King informing the county to pay Otis an annual $1,000 voter registration fee.

"Last year a state audit revealed we haven't been collecting a $1,000 per annum circuit clerk's fee authorized under the Current Practices Act," Otis explained.

In an interview Monday afternoon Otis further explained, "One of the former duties of the circuit clerk several years ago was to collect a poll tax. This was set at $2 per year per person, but several years ago the law regarding this tax was overturned by the Supreme Court."

"However, the Current Practices Act fee was never taken off the books, but this fee is for other services of my office," the circuit clerk said.

"Since the poll tax was removed I haven't been putting in a claim for the $1,000 fee for about the last seven years. However, I'm not asking for the money retroactively, I'm just asking for the money beginning now," Otis stated.

"It is the opinion of the State Attorney General that the $1,000 fee is for the registration of voters, one of my duties," Otis added.

In other money matters at the 9 a.m. regular meeting, the board:

Hancock trusty charged in Courthouse breakins

Darryle Smith, Hancock County jail trusty, has been charged with three counts of burglary, according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said Wednesday, "Smith, who was serving a three year sentence for burglary, is charged with an alleged breaking and entering of the tax collector and Circuit clerk's offices in addition to an evidence locker in the sheriff's office."

The burglaries took place on July 5, Peterson said. Smith is scheduled to appear before Justice Court Judge John Chevis on July 22 and has lost his privileges as a trustee.

"Smith was scheduled to be released by the department of corrections since he had served almost one third of his sentence and been in no trouble and was a trusty," Peterson commented. Peterson, who initiated the jail trusty program on a large scale using the trusties on various jobs throughout the county, said he planned on continuing the system.

He did add, "We feel like the program has been successful because a lot of good work has been done. We will tighten up the security of the trusties and they will be secured in the evenings when the jailer goes home and remain locked up until he returns the next morning."

Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay are in charge of the investigation.

American Legion Post 139 awards three scholarships

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 has established three perpetual scholarships, two in the amount of $500 at Pearl River Junior College and one at the University of Southern Mississippi, also for $500, according to Edward D. Murtagh Jr.

Deborah Skelton, Shirlene Favre, and Michael Smith, all Bay Senior High School graduates, have been selected as 1980 recipients of the scholarships, Murtagh announced.

Skelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Skelton of Bay St. Louis, was vice-president of her senior class and plans to major in personnel management at USM.

She was a three-year member of the Latin club, was inducted into the National president her senior year; was among the top ten in the state on the National French Exam in her junior year; was magna cum laude on the National Latin Exam in her junior year; and has represented the school and band at several regional and state music clinics.

Skelton received the John Philip Sousa and Tau Beta Sigma Outstanding Bandswoman awards in her senior year and the Pride Award her Junior Year.

She is a member of Waveland United Methodist Church.

Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Smith of Bay St. Louis, plans to study biology and senior years, including typing, shorthand and a clerical office course.

She is a member of the Business club and the chorus at Bay High.

She was an honor student her senior year.

Favre is employed as an office worker at the National Guard Armory this summer.

Murtagh reported that while children of Post 139 members are given preference when awarding the scholarships, any student may apply.

Trustees for the scholarships are John D. Rutherford Jr., John W. Wilkerson, and Murtagh.

Waveland oyster reef returns to normal

Despite persistent low salinities and high water temperatures, mortality on Mississippi oyster reefs has been minimal. Mortality has occurred on the Pascagoula reef and has been reported in Graveline Bayou according to graduate student John Supan of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL).

Salinities have been fluctuating weekly between satisfactory (greater than 5 ppt) and unsatisfactory (less than 5 ppt) levels for oyster survival.

The presence of the crystalline style (a rod-like enzymatic secretion used in digestion) in oysters where salinities are below 5 ppt, suggests that the reefs are receiving suitable salinities (above 5 ppt) sometime during the tidal cycle to feed.

A survey of the State reefs early in June by John Cirino of the Lab fisheries management section, showed that oysters on the Pascagoula and Waveland reefs were not feeding; however, suitable salinities were found just outside the Pascagoula reef near Round Island, and salinities over the Waveland reef were expected to return to near normal by the end of June.

Oysters on the Pass Christian, Pass Marianne, Telegraph, Biloxi Bay, and White House relay reefs were feeding despite low salinities.

Happy Ending, a Beginning For This Army Reservist

About five years ago, a young man aboard a U.S. Navy cruiser heading westward across the Pacific, was making a commitment. Although he may not have recognized it as a commitment then, time proved that it was.

The young man is Hieu Duc Bui, five years ago a lieutenant in the South Vietnamese Air Force, now a warrant officer in the U.S. Army Reserve. The events linking Hieu's prior and present military service tell a story of daring escape and gratitude toward those who helped him.

When Saigon fell, Lt. Bui was on leave, attempting to visit his family who were living close to the city. Not only was he unable to find his family, but he could not get back to his base in the Mekong Delta. Bui recalls "heading for the nearest airfield, under heavy attack by North Vietnamese ground and air forces." By the time Bui located a helicopter that was in flying condition, he had gathered a dozen other military personnel whom he put aboard in a daring flight to safety. Safety for Hieu and passengers was the help of a U.S. Navy cruiser about 26 miles off shore. Hieu wanted to go back to the mainland to rescue others, but his chopper had to be pushed overboard to make way for more incoming aircraft.

Hieu Duc Bui, reunited with his family who also had a harrowing escape from their homeland, now lives on the West Coast. One of the first things that Hieu did when he arrived there was to join the U.S. Army Reserve, "out of gratitude," he claims, "for all the help the United States gave to him, his family, and his Country."

Warrant Officer Bui is now a helicopter pilot with the Army Reserve 92nd Transportation Company in Everett, Washington. Although he has had over 4,300 hours of combat flying in Vietnam, it does not reduce his enthusiasm to learn more during the 16 hours a month training with his unit. According to Bui, this additional training may also be helpful in future civilian career plans.

Pearl, Bogue Chitto Rivers recreational maps available

Whether planning a fishing trip on the Bogue Chitto or a relaxing canoe float down the Pearl, two new float maps published by the Pearl River Basin Development District will be indispensable.

"These colorful informative maps, the Bogue Chitto River Float Trail and the Pearl River Float Trail, provide charts indicating river depths and free float times for canoeists. Mile markers, bridge crossings and boat ramp locations are included," according to Ruth Harkins, the district's executive vice president.

In addition to these charts, the district offers safety tips, interesting historical facts about the river, plus vivid color pictures of the Pearl River Boatway's water parks.

The "Bogue Chitto River Float Trail" covers a section of the river just above Johnston Station in Lincoln County to the Mississippi-Louisiana state line. The "Pearl River Float Trail" map illustrates the portion of the river flowing from Highway 80 in Jackson to Georgetown Water Park where the Strong and Pearl Rivers intersect.

According to Tom Shows, vice-president of the district's board of directors, the Pearl River Basin Development District is making these maps available to aid in recreational navigation along the Pearl River Boatway.

"This program is a bold plan designed to create a pleasure boatway along the Pearl River and its tributaries, beginning in Neshoba County near the Nanih Waiya Indian Mounds and ending in Hancock County where the river empties into the Gulf," Shows said.

A series of 14 water parks have been constructed adjacent to the Pearl and its tributaries to provide stopping points for float trips and boating excursions.

Float maps and brochures describing camping facilities in the Boatway Parks are free of charge to the public and may be obtained by calling or writing the Pearl River Basin Development District, P.O.

Box 5332, Jackson, Mississippi 39216, phone 354-6301.

The Pearl River Basin Development District is a special fund State agency composed of fifteen counties throughout Central and Southern Mississippi engaged in programs of recreation, construction, pollution abatement, flood control, soil conservation and other programs of development along the Pearl River.

JSU signs contract with Labor Department

Jackson State University and the U.S. Department of Labor have signed an agreement which will allow university students to work in professional positions for the department's Jackson Area Office.

The agreement calls for one student who is enrolled in the university's Master of Public Policy and Administration program to begin work in the department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs this fall.

Additional departmental offices and the number of students employed through the proposition are expected to increase as the program progresses.

The contract was signed by Dr. John A. Peoples, Jr., president of Jackson State University, and Ms. Margaret Johnson, director of the Jackson Area Office of the U.S. Department of Labor.

"This means additional help for our office," said Ms. Johnson. "Students are expected to conduct manpower studies to be used by that office and offices of the labor department."

If the student's work record is satisfactory by the time he earns the master's degree, he will be converted to career conditional status which means he will have tenure and become a permanent government employee in the labor department or some other government agency, Ms. Johnson said.

This marks the fourth agreement that Jackson State's MPFA program has signed with outside agencies. University contracts have been signed with the office of Personal Management, Soil Conservation Service, General Services Administration and the Department of Labor.

Jackson State's MPFA program provides practical career oriented training for persons seeking public service careers or for persons presently employed in public service positions.

PEARL FLOAT MAPS—Pearl River Basin Development District Vice-President Tom Shows, of Columbia, displays one of the district's new float maps.

SILLS GALA

Beverly Silles hosts a gala celebration featuring renowned figures in the world of opera, dance and theater in a rebroadcast of "Gala of Stars" on Mississippi ETV. The two-hour program can be seen at 9 p.m., Saturday, July 12, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Little Theatre raises curtain on Cole Porter musical tonight

"Anything Goes" opens tonight at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre on Boardman Avenue.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. and tickets will be available at the door.

Connie Heltzman stars with Dan Griffin and Vic Frankiewicz Jr. in the Cole Porter musical revival.

The production features a cast of 25 on the cruise ship S.S. America on their way to England.

Classic songs such as "You're the Top," "Friendship," "It's Delightful," "Blow Gabriel" and the title song, "Anything Goes," combine with fast paced, comic dialogue to provide an evening of "pure pleasure," according to a theater spokesman.

Other songs included in the show feature Pam Griffin in "Heaven Hop" and "Let's Step Out;"

Topsy Stieffel in "All Through The Night;" and Rusty Blackwell in "Let's Misbehave." Comfortable attire is recommended for the theater which is cooled naturally by Bay St. Louis breezes only.

Miss Hospitality Pageant in Coliseum July 16

A tradition of more than 30 years will continue July 16-19 on the Gulf Coast as young women from every section of Mississippi contend for the title of Mississippi's Miss Hospitality.

Governor William Winter and reigning Miss Hospitality Shane Pittman to Tylertown will crown the new winner in coronation ceremonies July 19. Sponsored by the Division of Tourism, Mississippi Department of Economic Development, the pageant is in its 31st year.

The 78 girls from towns, counties and cities all over the state in this year's pageant will compete for the chance to represent Mississippi at trade and travel shows, industrial development functions and other events throughout the U.S. and in foreign countries during 1980-81.

"It's not an easy job," said George Williams, director of the Division of Tourism. "Miss Hospitality must travel thousands of miles, often with little rest and time for preparation, to greet people, make speeches, give interviews and generally promote Mississippi." Miss Hospitality also travels over the state, appearing at groundbreaking ceremonies, before civic groups, on talk shows and in parades.

Coronation ceremonies begin at 8 p.m., Saturday, July 19, in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi and are open to the public at no charge.

keeping you in touch

By F. M. Kyle, Jr.
Gulf Coast District Manager

With gas prices skyrocketing, long distance can be a real money saver. Your telephone can do the traveling for you and still let you make personal contact.

At home, reach out by long distance to send greetings, visit relatives, and touch loved ones far away. Answer cards and letters with a long distance call—it's the personal reply they'll remember.

In business, use long distance to sell products, make appointments, go to meetings in other cities, and help solve problems. You can serve customers faster, speed up distribution, and even close a sale.

When you need action fast, long distance is the economical way to go. Long distance rates are lower than many people realize, especially during discount periods. One-Plus* calls dialed during the night and weekend discount periods let you save most. Rates are lowest every night from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., and on weekends from 11 p.m. Friday till 5 p.m. Sunday.

So plan ahead and call instead. Long distance—best mileage for your money.

Slowing down our gasoline consumption will conserve resources and help the family budget.

One way to beat the high cost of gasoline is to use your phone and the Yellow Pages to save costly, gas-wasting trips around town.

The Yellow Pages gives you the who, what, where, when, and why of shopping before you leave your home or office. And the telephone gets you from place to place a lot cheaper than gasoline.

Save time, gas, and money. Know before you go. Use the Yellow Pages—the mileage maker.

*One-Plus rates do not apply to Zero-Plus dial calls, operator-handled calls, coin telephone calls, calls from a hotel or motel, or calls to Alaska or Hawaii.

On One-Plus calls, discounts apply to total charges. On operator-assisted calls, discounts apply only to additional minute charges.

Make good things happen fast
...by long distance.

Scientists reappointed to Gulf Council

Dr. Gordon Gunter and J.Y. Christmas, senior marine scientists associated with the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, have been advised that they have been reappointed to committees of the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council.

Gunter was reappointed to the Standing Scientific and Statistical Committee, and Christmas to the Special Shrimp Committee, for 1980-81.

The Gulf Council will enter the implementation and monitoring phase of plan development during the next year. The Special Shrimp Committee will review the monitoring information and advise revisions needed to the plan.

BILLIONS TO VA
Veterans Administration spending in 1980—its first year of operation—was $785 million, or about four percent of the $21 billion the agency plans to spend in 1980; its 50th year of service to veterans.
